So when the string is: "John's is the best street in the village" and I get: ["John's is the best street in the village"] Currently I am using this regex def s(my_string, my_regex): for x in re.split(my_regex, my_string): pass and it works fine, but I'd like to know if there is a way to achieve the same without re. A: I think you can try with re.split: s = "John's is the best street in the village" print re.split(r'[\w]*', s) # ["John's is the best street in the village"] A: Maybe you need a recursive solution like this one: def parse_quoted_string(s): l = [s] while l: u = l.pop(0) print u # now use u
