I'm working on an AJAX website, and have been using the developer tools in Firefox to find out what's going on under the hood. I've been tracking the sessionId cookie and have noticed that it's been sent as a blank value. For example: If I submit the form with an empty value in my text box, after I refresh the page and inspect the cookies, the sessionId is sent as the value of my text box: Cookie Name: sessionId Value: But if I input any character in the text box (e.g. type "foo"), after I refresh and inspect the cookies the value looks as below: Cookie Name: sessionId Value: foo I'm not sure if this is expected behavior, or if I'm doing something wrong. EDIT: I'm using Firefox 11.0. A: I have seen it happen when you change a field that has already a value, that field is then updated. I think that's what happens in your case. CARY, N.C. -- The field at Edgewood's picnic facilities has been cleared and those eager to watch the contestants in the Hart Trophy race compete for the prize will soon get their chance. The winner of the national player of the year award will be announced live on ESPN during the second round of the NCAA tournament, which begins Wednesday.
