New In-Game Features “Tackle” Ready Player Beginning with Fifa 22 Cracked Version, the Player Impact Engine (PIE) is used in-game to calculate the contact area for tackles and aerial duels. Players in CUE mode will have their tackle and aerial duel tackle area displayed in the 3D HUD. PIE is powered by Real Kicks, an innovative 3D physics engine used in FIFA 19 and FIFA 20. Real Kicks allows players to accurately predict the impact area during physical play and calculate the correct outcome for each collision. If a player receives a major collision – forceful impact against the opponent’s body, the ball, or both – the impact force is calculated based on the collision location, angle, and playing style. Players can accurately predict the outcome of these interactions using the data calculated by Real Kicks and determine if it was a tackle, shot on goal, pass, chip, etc. For example, if a player is a non-defending midfielder, touching the ball with an opponent, the automated system will calculate the ball’s impact location and determine if it’s a shot on goal or a pass that goes out of bounds.

TOPICS Game Preview - Gameplay and Features Darrell Lovell - Gameplay Producer "We've introduced a brand new look and feel to FIFA, along with a host of new features. Since FIFA 14, we've aimed to set new standards for soccer videogames across the board, and you'll see us continue to build on this momentum this year. But rather than simply churn out another game in the same vein, we have done a lot of deep thinking about what is it we need to create the best game possible, as well as how to market the FIFA brand successfully." Joshi Mao - Gameplay Producer "We've put a lot of work into how we're going to present our game to our players. By creating a unique look and feel for the game, we can communicate our intent and drive players to our story, which is all about player empowerment. Our quest is to take the virtual sports bar, the pub, and open up our world to the players - to take FIFA and make it an engaging experience beyond the game." Michael Wucker - Creative Director "You're going to see more variety in the looks of our stadiums. We're striving for authenticity, but still create a modern look and feel. We've created a whole new look for the game, a whole new style, and you're going to see it in the stadiums. We're going to bring the feel of the MLS to the world of FIFA."
