Download Free Online Books and Download Devesh mishra pathology pdf download book and write reviews onQ: Laravel 5.5 Routing issues I have the following routing set up: Route::post('/add-bonus/{bonus_id}/{bonus_type}/{bonus_name}', 'HomeController@addBonus'); Route::get('/bonus/{bonus_id}/{bonus_type}/{bonus_name}', 'HomeController@bonus'); I'm trying to use the following route to access the HomeController: The problem is that the route doesn't work. I think this is because the post method is being used. I have even tried setting up a URI prefixed to the get method but it doesn't work. If I change the second route to a get route (the /bonus/ route) and remove the post, then my code works. A: If you have only one specific get request, you need to put it within the same route. The reason being that the Laravel Framework will add a prefix to the route in order to act as protection against CSRF and or XSS attacks As an example
